

We are pleased to announce that the 2020 Statistical Methods in Imaging \(SMI\) conference will be held on May 18-21, 2020 at Emory University Rollins School of Public Health (RSPH). The SMI conference is the annual meeting of the ASA Statistics in Imaging section. A preliminary program for the conference is now available.

Highlights of SMI 2020

- Keynote addresses by Dr. Tom Nichols (Professor of Neuroimaging Statistics, Nuffield Department of Population Health, University of Oxford) and Dr. Vince Calhoun (Director, Tri-institutional Center for Translational Research in Neuroimaging and Data Science)
- Short Course: “Introduction to Deep Learning” by Dr. Hui Lin, Head of Data Science at Netlify
- A special session on statistical software for imaging analysis
- Poster session with student poster competition
- 13 invited sessions and 2 collaborative case-study sessions
- A student paper competition