

DISCOVERING EMORY 2020

NAVIGATING COVID-19: HEALTH AND SOCIAL IMPACT

A VIRTUAL EVENT
TUESDAY, AUGUST 11
12–1:15 p.m.

Key Objectives:

- Provide business leaders with the latest information on COVID-19 research and therapeutics from Emory experts.
- Equip business leaders with public health tools and strategies to consider as we are transitioning back into the workplace.
- Foster an honest conversation on the social and economic divides during the pandemic.
- Discuss the socio-economic impact of COVID-19 and a more sustainable response to the pandemic.

It is our pleasure to invite you to Discovering Emory 2020: Navigating COVID-19 hosted by Emory University Office of Corporate Relations on Tuesday, August 11, from 12–1:15 pm.

During this virtual forum, Emory experts will discuss their perspectives on critical health and socio-economic issues as we learn to navigate life post COVID-19, prepare to return to the workplace and discuss the social impact of the pandemic.

PANEL 1: A dynamic conversation with Emory research and medical experts on the latest information regarding a potential vaccine, promising therapeutics and public health strategies on going back to the workplace.

PANEL 2: A candid dialogue about the social, economic and racial divides exposed by the pandemic and ways to create a sustainable response to this public crisis.
