

Health Services Research Seminar Series

Aligning public policy and public preferences for health information sharing and use

Jodyn Platt, PhD, MPH

Assistant Professor
Learning Health Sciences
University of Michigan
School of Medicine

Jodyn Platt, PhD, MPH is an Assistant Professor of Learning Health Sciences trained in medical sociology and health policy. Her research currently focuses addresses the Ethical, Legal, and Social Implications (ELSI) of learning health systems and related enterprises. She is interested in understanding what makes learning health systems trusted and the pathways for earning, achieving, and sustaining trust.

WEDNESDAY 01.26.22 - 2:00 PM

For ZOOM link register at

https://zoom.us/meeting/register/tjArduuspzsiG90ObTz0oyG_wusbDVQcpxv3