

Josiah Macy Jr. Foundation – Macy Faculty Scholars

Restricted funding opportunity – School of Medicine and School of Nursing only

From: Office of the Provost
Coordinator: Jessica McDaniel, Office of Foundation Relations
Website: Internal InfoReady Submission:
<https://emory.infoready4.com/#competitionDetail/1828734>
and <https://macyfoundation.org/macy-scholars/apply>

Submission Limitations: Emory University has been invited to nominate two (2) candidates for this program – (1) School of Medicine faculty; and (1) School of Nursing faculty. Dean’s endorsement required (this letter is not needed for the internal selection process).

Internal Deadline: December 21, 2020
Foundation Informational Webinar: December 9, 2020, Noon ET – RSVP here
Foundation Deadline: February 10, 2021, by 3:00 pm ET Opportunity Details: The Macy Faculty Scholars Program is designed to identify and nurture the careers of promising educational innovators in medicine and nursing. The program aims to develop the next generation of national leaders in medical and nursing education. The program will support the Macy Faculty Scholars in leading new educational innovations at their home institutions and will provide opportunities for further career development through national meetings and participation in other Macy activities. The school must commit to protecting at least 50% of the Scholar’s time to pursue their work as a Scholar.

Eligibility Criteria: Candidates must: 1) Be a faculty member in a United States accredited nursing school, allopathic medical school, or osteopathic medical school. Candidates should have at least five years of full-time faculty experience at the time of application. 2) Be nominated by the dean of the school. There can be only one nominee per nursing school and one per medical school, and a nursing or medical school with a first-year Macy Faculty Scholar is precluded from nominating a candidate during this year. 3) Have a faculty mentor who will advise the candidate on the candidate’s educational innovation project and career development. 4) Be a citizen or permanent resident of the United States or its territories.

Budget Terms: Macy Faculty Scholars Program will provide salary support for each Scholar up to $100,000 (plus fringe) per year, which will protect at least 50% of the Scholar’s time over two years

Instructions for Submitting an Internal Application:

To apply, click on the “Apply” button at the top right-hand side of the page of the InfoReady announcement <https://emory.infoready4.com/#competitionDetail/1828734>. The internal application will be due by 5PM December 21, 2020 and must include (one pdf file):

1. a statement by the candidate of career objectives and personal goals for this program (1-page limit);
2. a description of the educational innovation project to be undertaken (not to exceed 2 pages); and
3. an NIH-style biosketch (5-page limit)

Internal Review Process:

- Internal Due Date: December 18, 2019
 - Internal Committee Review: Macy Faculty Scholars Review Committee will select two proposals to move forward (1 from Medicine and 1 from Nursing) by January 11, 2021.

If chosen to represent Emory as the Institutional Nominee, in coordination with your RAS unit and Jessica McDaniel, the final proposal must include the following (submission deadline, February 10, 2021:

- Statement by the candidate of career objectives and personal goals for this program (maximum 7,600 characters).
- Description by the candidate of the educational innovation project to be undertaken (maximum 10,000 characters).
- Nominating letter from the dean of the school of nursing or medicine.
- Letter of support from the candidate's mentor describing the characteristics that would make the candidate a future leader and indicating a commitment to advise the candidate on project work and career development.
- Letter from the candidate's department chair indicating the chair's commitment to protecting the time of the candidate and describing the role of the candidate in the department.
- Letter from one or two other senior faculty members who are familiar with the work of the candidate. If the candidate's project involves faculty or students from another health profession, one of these letters should be from a faculty member from the corresponding school. The faculty letters should address the personal characteristics of the candidate as a future leader and innovator.
- Current curriculum vitae of the candidate and mentor.

If you have any additional questions, please contact Jessica McDaniel (jessica.mcdaniel@emory.edu) in the Office of Foundation Relations.